Following weeks of intensive preparation, the junior and senior groups of the local C.G.I.T. presented their concert in the local Opera House to a fairly well-filled house last Wednesday evening. The raising of the curtain found the girls attired in their C.G.I.T. regalia, all on the stage in "Salutation to the Dawn," representing a morning scene at camp.

A farce-comedy, "Have you seen Red?" was well put over by a number of junior and senior girls. The story was woven around "Red," taken by Marvell Shiels, the "leading man" in the story. The play contained plenty of action and was directed by Miss Ruth Liesemer, the leader of the junior group. Twelve pretty old-fashioned costumes were next featured by twelve pretty girls in an old-fashioned dance, "Sir Roger de Coverley" to the tunes of Beethoven's Minuet and the French Minuet. Following this act, a short action song was presented by Margaret Geiger and Joyce Moyle in their medieval costumes. Dorothy Ranton and Dorothy Hugel were the songsters.

"What Men Live By" was the title of the final presentation given by the senior girls, a play directed by Mrs. J. Boorman. The parts were singularly suited to the various players. The outstanding part, "Michael" was admirably taken by Joyce Moyle, depicting a fallen angel who came to the home of a poor cobbler and his wife, exceptionally well portrayed by Margaret Geiger and Dorothy Ranton. This play elicited much favorable comment from the audience.

The girls and their leaders appreciate the support they received at the hands of the public and also wish to express their thanks to the Tuxie Boys who assisted in more ways than one to make the concert such a success.

Mr. J. V. Berscht was a business visitor to Calgary on Tuesday.

Parker, P.G.M., Bro. Saunders, P.G.P., Bro. J. Wright, D.D.G.P., and Bro. Webb, D.D.G.M. There were also short speeches from officers and members of the visiting lodges. Bro. Ellis Barnes, N.G. and Bro. A. Buckler, P.G., of the Didsbury Lodge made suitable replies.

The members and visitors indulged in community singing between the speeches. A very happy meeting was brought to a close about 2 a.m.

Rev. H. Clay Given Farewell Reception.

On Monday evening a large number of the members and friends of St. Cyprian's church met at the Opera House to do honor to their rector, Rev. H. Clay who is leaving this district. A short program of community singing, readings, and musical numbers was followed by a delightful supper which was provided by the Women's Auxilliary.

Mr. W. Leadbetter acted as chairman and several members of the church and citizens expressed their regret at the departure of Mr. Clay, and all spoke in eulogistic terms on the good work that had been accomplished during the nine years he had been connected with the parish.

On behalf of the congregation, Mr. Leadbetter with a few well-chosen words, presented Mr. Clay with a check as a token of esteem and appreciation. Mr. Clay suitably replied and stated that after his return from England where he is going for a few months holiday, he hoped to return to Didsbury from time to time and renew his acquaintance.

Mr. Clay will be succeeded by Rev. H. Jackson Archer who comes here from Epiphany Mission, Hartshorn, Alberta.

To friends and adherents of the Church.

To all those who gave to me such kind farewell reception and others who manifested so much goodwill, may I sincerely offer my very best thanks

There's "Gold" In The Golden Rule

A heading in a business magazine reads: "There's Gold In The Golden Rule," and the accompanying article proves it. There is no doubt that following the Golden Rule, in business as well as out of it, in the long run will be more profitable than otherwise, and by this we mean materially profitable. There is a principle recognized by modern business that the business man, to be permanently successful, must contribute to the profit and welfare of those who deal with him, those from whom he buys as well as those to whom he sells. And in a measure, this is recognition of the Golden Rule.

But here comes the rub. Is the Golden Rule observed, even to such a limited extent, for itself or for the "gold" which may be mined from it. Is it observed because it is the right thing to do or because it is the more expedient, the more profitable thing? Are we to "do unto others" from pure delight in the doing, or because we wish to have them do the same to us? The real beauty, and force, and advantage of the Golden Rule lie in our attitude toward it. Its efficacy is in itself and in what prompts us to practice it.

Just to follow the Golden Rule because there is "gold in it," would be much the same as being honest because it is the "best policy." Neither impulse would rate high among the things considered admirable. To follow the Golden Rule because it charts the inherently right course in our dealings with our fellows and because we wish to be and to do right, is in the highest degree commendable. But to follow it merely or chiefly because "there's gold in it" is—well, not something we would care to boast about. The greatest profit which comes from living the Golden Rule cannot be set down in dollars and cents.

Throughout Western Canada our people have very largely accepted and adapted the principle of co-operation in connection with their economic relations and business. Unfortunately, it is not quite so generally accepted and acted upon in other community relationships. The question, therefore, naturally arises: Has this acceptance of one of the principles found in the Golden Rule resulted from a belief that "there's gold in it," rather than from a conviction that co-operation is indeed the better way for all concerned? Have we established, and are we maintaining, our great co-operative enterprises solely on a dollar and cents basis, or are a majority of our people earnestly striving to, in this way, make some contribution to the welfare of others?

Many fine and lofty sentiments,—the sentiments of the Golden Rule,—have been uttered by advocates of co-operation, and we are convinced that scores of men and women have joined co-operative organizations, not because they felt that they themselves would reap any particular benefits, but because they felt such organizations would be the means of benefiting others and the country as a whole. They are practising the Golden Rule because they believe it to be right, not because there may be some "gold" in it for them.

And if co-operation is to live and continue as a vital force in the life and activities of this country, if it is to grow and develop as a great compelling influence and force, not only in an economic sense but in all our community life, it must be through a general acceptance of the view, and its practice in everyday life, that selfishness is wrong and unselfishness is right; that the welfare and happiness of others is our concern as well as theirs; that the Golden Rule is to be practised not because there is "gold" in it for us, but because it is the only correct rule by which to measure our lives and acts; that we must be honest with each other, not because it is "the best policy" but because it is right. If we expect others to accord honesty to us in our convictions, we must likewise recognize and believe in the honesty of convictions entertained by others.

True co-operation is founded on the Golden Rule. It is its underlying principle. It is the only foundation upon which our great co-operative organizations can safely build, not because there is "gold" in it for anybody, but because it is the only safe rule for human conduct and intercourse.

A Matter Of Opinion

It is announced that Ontario and Quebec are to have "new penitentiaries which will be models for the world." This brings to mind the presentment some years ago of a Brantford, Ontario, grand jury, in which it was stated that conditions at the local jail were such as to make it "one of the most desirable places of residence in the city."

One spoonful will neutralize at once many times its volume in acid. It is the right way, the quick, pleasant and efficient way to kill the excess acid. The stomach becomes sweet, the pain departs. You are happy again in five minutes. Don't depend on crude methods. Employ the best way yet evolved in all the years of searching. That is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

New Species Of Whitefish

Newly Discovered Member Of Finny Tribe Found In Manitoba

Discovery of a new species of whitefish in Clear Lake, Manitoba, is announced by A. Bajkov, of Manitoba University. The new species has been named Coregonus Odonoghuei, in honor of Dr. C. H. O'Donoghue, formerly of the faculty of Manitoba University. The newly-discovered fish is common in Clear Lake. It lives at a great depth during the summer, coming to the surface only in the spawning season.

DO YOU FEAR A HEARTY MEAL?

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Will Tone Up Your Stomach Making
Mealtime a Pleasure

Are you afraid of meal-time? Does eating distress you? Would you rather go without food? That is the condition of many due entirely to indigestion. There can be no perfect digestion—hence no enjoyment of meal-time—unless you have rich, red blood. This pure blood is necessary to tone up your stomach and make it capable of properly digesting the food.

Many so-called stomach remedies merely try to digest your food for you. That is a mistake—nature should do that work and if nature does not do it serious results are bound to follow. Tone up your stomach by driving out the poisons that are in the blood. Make new rich blood and your appetite and digestion will soon be normal—meals will once more be a pleasure.

The one sure medicine to enrich the blood, restore strength and banish stomach trouble and indigestion is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Concerning them Mrs. Wm. T. Thompson, Brussels, Ont., says: "For years I suffered with indigestion, headaches and dizzy spells. I tried a great many so-called remedies without relief. As a farmer's wife, with three little girls, it was almost impossible to be idle and I just dragged myself through my work. I suffered so I was actually afraid of meal time. A friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had lost faith in ever being well again, I purchased a supply and began taking them. Gradually the dizziness and headaches left me. My appetite improved and soon I was able to enjoy my meals. I gained in weight and my health in general is better than it has been for years. I feel I owe much to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they relieved me of all my misery."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Test Is Satisfactory

The annual retest of the herds in the Fraser Valley, B.C., for T.B. is being carried on at present by about twenty veterinarians. More than half of all the dairy cows in the province (55,000) are located within this area and in the last test only three quarters of one per cent. re-acted.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

Town Planning Advantage Shown

An Attractive Community Depends Greatly Upon the Appearance Of Its Streets

The following advantages that accrue from a systematic effort at town planning are given by Mr. Stewart Young, of the Town Planning Department of the Saskatchewan Government:

The general appearance of any community is most important, and if ways and means by which more agreeable surroundings can be produced are analyzed, it will be found that an attractive community depends greatly upon the appearance of its streets.

The appearance of a business street may be marred by the use of the sidewalks for storage or advertising purposes. Curb gasoline pumps do not add to the appearance of any street and should be prohibited. Electric light and telephone wires, when placed on a street tend to give it a ragged appearance. They should be placed underground in conduits or on lanes.

The appearance of the residential streets of any community reflects the mental attitude of the citizens. Every community should have a definite policy in respect of tree planting on residential streets. The boulevard system should be used.

Usually a sidewalk four and a half feet in width placed at a distance of about two feet from the street line with a graded roadway about twenty-four feet in width is sufficient to accommodate all traffic on residential streets. The intervening space between the sidewalk and the vehicular traffic way should be planted with trees spaced about twenty feet apart, and alternated slow and fast growing.

Several advantages are to be gained by this method of planting. Fast growing trees mature in a period of from twenty to twenty-five years, at the end of which time the slow growing tree has reached a stage where it becomes useful. Moreover, insects seldom attack more than one variety of tree in a season. The result is obvious where a street is planted entirely with one variety of trees.

Deliver Tea By 'Plane

Tea Freight, Begun On Oxen-Cart, Ends With Trip On Aeroplane

It is a far cry from the slow-moving, primitive, high-wheeled cart, hauled by oxen along the roads of Ceylon, to a speedy aeroplane in the winter sky over Lake Erie, but many of the people of Pelee Island are now drinking tea, carried there by air, that joggled along in an ox-cart under a tropical sun in Ceylon only a few weeks ago.

The Salada Tea Company, because of the freezing over of Lake Erie, between Pelee and the mainland, recently shipped several hundred pounds of tea by air, in order to replenish the diminishing stock of a certain grocer on the island.

Apple Trees For Prairie Farms

Sixteen Varieties Of Apples Found Suitable For the West

After fifteen years of seed planting the experimental work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture has developed sixteen varieties of apple trees suited to the climatic conditions of the Prairie Provinces. Of these varieties two have been graded "very good" and four "good." Horticultural experts point out, however, that it will take several more tree generations to evolve the ideal species. Prairie farmers can help in this work by getting seed from the Experimental Station at Morden, Man., for planting in their own gardens.

Geographical Features Named After Indian Chiefs Are Numerous From Coast To Coast

Geographical features named after Indian chiefs are numerous in Canada. It is exactly 100 years since the first appearance on a map of the name Petawawa. According to the records of the Geographic Board of Canada, Petawawa River occurs on a map made in 1829 by Colonel John By, who built the Rideau Canal.

The name is now applied to the military camp on the Petawawa River in Renfrew County, Ontario. The Indian chief, Petawawa, is said to have hunted in the region and the meaning of the name is "the sound is coming" or "approaching sound."

In some cases an Indian has been commemorated by a name given him by the whites. There are several examples of this nature in New Brunswick, where Barnaby River, Bartibog River, Cain River, and Taxis River bear the names of Indian chiefs who once lived on these streams.

In Quebec the town of Donnacona recalls the "Lord of Canada," who was taken to France by Jacques Cartier, in 1536, and died there. In Manitoba, Peguis post office takes its name from a Saulteaux chief who, in 1835, was granted an annuity of $25 by the Hudson's Bay Company. He was a friend of the colonists of the Red River Settlement (Winnipeg), and well disposed towards the whites.

In Saskatchewan, Cutknife Hill, according to tradition, commemorates a Sarcee who was killed on it in battle with Crees. In Alberta, Crowfoot Village, Mekasto railway station, and Chiniki Lake, are a tribute to the worth of Indian chiefs who on the coming of white men ceded their title to vast acres and forsook tribal warfare. Crowfoot, head chief of the Blackfeet, was a keen business man, not a warrior, who kept his tribe at peace with the whites. Mekasto, or Red Crow, head chief of the Southern Bloods, was loyal throughout the 1885 rebellion. Chiniki was a Stony Indian chief.

Kanaskis pass, in the Rockies, commemorates an Indian who made a wonderful recovery from the blow of an axe. Pouce-Coupe River, in Alberta and British Columbia bears the name of a Beaver Indian chief who settled on the river with 500 followers.

The name is French for "cut thumb." In British Columbia, Kinbasket Lake, an expansion of the Columbia River, was so named in 1866 by Walter Moberly, C.E., after a Shuswap Indian chief who was of service to him on an exploratory trip. Nicola Lake commemorates an Indian chief whose other name, Nwisterncekin, meaning "walking grizzly bear," well describes his character.

To Grow Early Potatoes

B.C. Association Imports Certified Seed From Prince Edward Island

For the purpose of supplying the prairie markets with early potatoes, some fifty farmers on Lulu Island, British Columbia, have formed the Richmond Early Potato Growers' Association. Each member will put in a special plot of two or three acres of early potatoes, which will be planted simultaneously at the end of the present month, so that they will be ready for market at the same time. Irish Cobbler has been selected as the variety to use and a car-load of certified seed has been imported from Prince Edward Island.

Plant Clean Seed

Need For Planting Clean Seed This Year Is Greater Than Ever Before

You may not always be able to afford finest quality registered seed for planting; but you can always afford clean seed for planting. The seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture are urging the planting of clean seed this year more than ever before—clean seed pays, particularly with the weed menace reaching the alarming proportions it does in many parts of Canada today.

There are many effective ways of cleaning seed, depending upon the quantity to be cleaned, location and equipment. In many parts of Canada seed cleaning machinery is readily available for the purpose, while in others suitable screens can be adapted to the fanning mill, and in some of the more remote sections the old pioneer method of wind-cleaning is always available.

Hard Legal Problem

English Magistrates Puzzled Over Definition Of "Farmer"

What is a farmer?

Hundreds of people who gain their livelihood from their own land in the counties of England are affected by that legal question.

Large sums of money, too, are involved, for dependent on the answer to the problem is the amount of rates which may, or may not, have to be paid by the men and women who consider themselves "farmers" in the legal sense.

Is, for example, a bee-keeper a farmer? Can a keeper of chickens be called a farmer?

One side of the difficulty has been settled by the Oxfordshire Quarter Sessions in considering a rating appeal—the first case of its kind. The magistrates at the Oxford County Hall decided that a bee-keeper was a farmer, and, as such was entitled to have his home rated as a "farmhouse."

Christopher Bartlett, of Sandford Mount, Charlbury, appealed to the quarter sessions against the assessment of his house, because he was a bee-keeper. His house had been assessed at £100, whereas he maintained that as a farmhouse the assessment should not be more than £40.

"He is the largest bee-farmer in England," said E. Gorst, counsel for Mr. Bartlett. "His home has been assessed as a country house, whereas it is used by a man who is working an agricultural holding and is therefore a farmhouse in fact."

Dr. Earengay, counsel for the rating authority, and one of the foremost barristers on the Oxford circuit, submitted that bee-keeping was not farming. R. T. Barrie, the rating officer for the Chipping Norton Council, gave evidence that, in his opinion, £100 was the fair and proper assessment for Sandford Mount.

Eventually the magistrates upheld the appeal of Mr. Bartlett, and fixed the assessment of his home at £60—a reduction of £40 from the former rateable value.

Oldest Trainman

Canada's Oldest Trainman Celebrates Birthday at Truro, N.S.

Claiming to be Canada's oldest trainman, Robert Williams, of Truro, N.S., rounded out the ninety-one mark on March 1st. He was born at West River, Antigonish County, Nova Scotia, March 1, 1839, and when seventeen years old got a job on the construction of the Nova Scotia Railway. Feeling the call of the sea, he joined a sailing vessel and rounded "The Horn." On a trip from Liverpool, England, with troops for a far-off station, his ship was wrecked while rounding "The Horn," and he was among the 49 saved. Once he fell forty feet from the rigging and broke an arm and also injured an eye. In the early seventies, he decided to give up the sea, and, in 1874, joined the service of the Intercolonial Railway, now part of the Canadian National Railways System, and retired on pension in 1910, at the age of seventy-one.

Russian Bees Stingless

Entomologists Have Proved This After Three Years' Experiment

That everything from Russia is not dangerous was established with the announcement that Russian bees do not sting. This was the result of three years' experimenting at the agricultural station at New Brunswick.

The bees from Russia produce as much honey as Italian bees, but swarm less frequently, it was said. During the entire experimentation period neither Ray Hutton nor B. E. Diggers, entomologists at the station, ever were stung.

"And then—and then?"
"You will have got used to it."

BUTTER FAT AT LOW MARK.

Butter fat at 30 cents is at the lowest price it has been at this season for many years.

In talking to the creamery men, we are advised that this is due entirely to the fact that so much butter is being brought into Canada from Australia under the Australian pact.

There is no doubt but that the dairy clauses in the Australian pact are working in to detriment of the dairy industry in Alberta.

The following figures showing the volume of butter imported into Canada during the past few years were submitted by Mr. T. M. Carlyle, of the Central Creameries.

In 1923, 1,588,000 pounds; 1924, 903,000 pounds; 1925, 95,000 pounds. Following the enactment of the treaty in October, 1925, imports jumped rapidly to 5,812,000 pounds in 1926; 11,206,000 pounds in 1927; 16,887,000 pounds in 1928, and in 1929 imports reached approximately 38,000,000 lbs.

Estimating the average production of cows in Canada at 5,000 pounds of milk or 200 pounds of butter fat annually, it will be seen, Mr. Carlyle pointed out, that butter imports last year replaced the production of an additional 190,000 cows in the Dominion. Further effects of this situation are to be seen in the fact that this number of cows would consume approximately 600,000 tons of hay and 300,000 tons of grain in a year, greatly increasing the domestic market for these products.

Thirty-eight million pounds of butter, it was further pointed out, would require in the neighborhood of 1,000,000 butter boxes utilizing about 3,000,000 feet of lumber and would provide a great deal of work in box factories and similar plants in the Dominion.

The effect on employment, Mr. Carlyle showed, may be seen in the fact that on the average one man can feed and care for ten cows, and that approximately 20,000 additional men would be required on dairy farms in the Dominion to look after the 190,000 cows represented in the above calculations. In addition, work would be provided for from 100 to 200 skilled buttermakers and many creamery employees and the development of the industry to this extent in Canada would provide much additional railway tonnage and an increased market for coal.

Quotations for April show, stated Mr. Carlyle, that New Zealand butter can be laid down in Vancouver at about 21 cents per pound, and when this can be delivered in Calgary for an additional 1 1/2 cents per pound, the effect on the price which can be paid to the Alberta dairyman for his cream is readily seen.

Now the question is what can be done to overcome this handicap placed on our farmers? There is only one possible solution. Our farmers must demand that the Dominion Government repeal the clauses of the Australian pact which affect our dairy industry.

The Dominion Government has already had these facts placed before it, but has not considered the western farmer of sufficient importance to grant the relief asked for.

The situation at present is such that the dairying industry in Alberta is in danger of being wiped out altogether.

The solution is simple, the King Government could easily have the dairy clauses of the Australian pact struck out. Our Alberta Government should bring pressure to bear at Ottawa with a view to getting the necessary changes made at the earliest possible moment.

BOOSTERS WANTED

A town has no place for a knocker; a knocker is hardly a man without a country, but his country, his town, or his community has little use for him.

There are all kinds of knockers—as many as there are kinds of people. The thriving town is filled with boosters—boosters who so outnumber the knockers that their knocking does not count for much.

We like the boosters. Sometimes they are super-enthusiastic, or, rather over-enthusiastic is the better word. But they are always enthusiastic for their home town or the cause in which they are interested, and they are never to be found hanging around somewhere knocking this and knocking that. No, a booster is not built that way.

We must have these boosters; they are just as necessary to the successful enterprise as daylight is to the earth.

Knockers are found everywhere, just the same as boosters, but, let us all be thankful for it, the boosters

Advertising is the most powerful searchlight known to business. It focuses the attention of a community or a continent on a particular product. It gives that product the advantages of a widespread test by the buying public. But it cannot persuade that public to buy any article it has tested and found wanting. Manufacturers and merchants know this. They know also that advertising an unworthy product does only one thing: It brings magnified attention to its deficiencies. Therefore, before they undertake extensive or consistent advertising, they make sure that their product is right.

Consistent advertising is your best assurance of value and worth. It is fair evidence that the advertising is offering a good product which has been thoroughly tested and approved.

WHY THE SPREAD?

A Ford car at the American factory costs $625. At the Canadian factory the cost is $805. A Chevrolet costs $675 at Detroit and $835 at Oshawa. So the story runs all the way up the scale until you reach the Cadillac, where the spread is over $1070.

The duty on an imported Ford, for instance, brings the price in the neighborhood of the Canadian price quoted. But the cars are said to be at least partly constructed in Canada, Canadian labor is employed and on what dutiable material goes into a car the manufacture is entitled to at least some drawback. Then why the spread? The fact that these cars are manufactured in Canada seems to mean nothing to the purchaser. Is it right that industries should be kept going at the expense of the Canadian citizen?

How many other commodities are manufactured in Canada but cost the consumer as much as if they were brought in direct from the United States? These and other questions would make interesting reading. It would appear that hundreds of thousands of purchasers are being soaked for super-profits for the benefit of a few people.

YOUNG AT NINETY

We know a young lady of ninety-three who is living a wonderful life although sadly crippled by a broken hip. This bright spirit has never allowed herself to become aged. Her secret is worth passing along. She never burned the candle at both ends; she never ate ill-balanced meals, nor food that was obviously unsuitable for aging arteries, nor in too large quantities. She always slept well in a fresh-aired room. She always kept her mind at ease, refusing to worry over trifles that age the mind.

She always smiled—nay, she enjoyed a hearty laugh. Her happy, cheerful disposition was indeed a benediction to all with whom she came in contact. Last, and best of all, she lived unselfishly and gave some of her substance to others in misfortune. She was often heard to say that one of her happiest interests in life was being a member of the Red Cross Society. She herself could not be active in the sort of work that the Society was doing, but by doing the little she was able, financially, she realized the joy of service to others, and gained in happiness and contentment thereby.

WHAT OTHER EDITORS ARE SAYING

THE HAWKER AND PEDDLER

With the recent decision to inaugurate a business tax in Hanna, citizens will have all the more reason to show loyalty toward the business man in their midst; the man who contributes directly and indirectly, day in and day out, to the growth and prosperity of our "home town."

The hawker and peddler who exhibits his wares from door to door may tempt the thoughtless householder, but the man and woman who realizes that no town would be worth living in if it were not for progressive business men, will give these birds of passage little encouragement.

"Be loyal to your own community," is a slogan of which every citizen should take heed.

The hawker and peddler has received encouragement at the hands of the Alberta government, but the citizen who is loyal to his own town and community will discourage the door-to-door peddler of pants, printing and prunes.—The Hanna Herald.

SATISFACTION

Death Claims Former Employee of Pioneer.

Called by death in the prime of life, Frederick John Slight, editor of the Camrose Canadian and prominent in business circles in Camrose, succumbed on Monday after an illness of several months. A few weeks ago he was taken to St. Mary's hospital, Camrose, for the second time during the period of his failing health. Besides his widow, he is survived by three small daughters, Hattie Marion, age three; Lorna and Carol, twins, two years of age; two sisters, Mrs. R. Fuller and Mrs. Lyfield live in the Camrose district.

Deceased was in his forty-first year, having been born in England, October 31, 1889. He came to Canada in 1910 and soon afterwards was employed by the Didsbury Pioneer. After being with the staff of this paper for one year he went to Vancouver, but decided that he would prefer to locate in Alberta. He returned to the Province and joined the staff of the Camrose Canadian. When the War broke out, he enlisted in January, 1915 with the 51st Battalion, one of the very first from Camrose to go overseas. He returned to Camrose in May, 1919. On December 25 of the same year he married Miss Ila Henry, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Henry of Camrose.

Almost immediately after his marriage he purchased a newspaper business at Erskine, Alberta. Nearly two years later, Mr. Slight disposed of the Erskine paper, when he and Mrs. Slight returned to Camrose and for a second time Mr. Slight joined the staff of the Camrose Canadian.

The funeral services were held on Wednesday and the burial took place in charge of the Camrose Command of the Canadian Legion.

Saskatchewan Will Fight Cancer Scourge

Legislation Provides For Commission To Administer Act and For Diagnostic Clinics

Saskatchewan, first of Canadian provinces, has made preparations to tackle the growing menace of cancer as a public health problem.

The necessary machinery is provided in a Bill to establish a permanent Cancer Commission in the province, which has just been passed by the Saskatchewan Legislature. In this advanced legislation, Hon. F. D. Munroe, M.D., Minister of Public Health, in the Co-operative Government, has enhanced the already high prestige of Saskatchewan in matters pertaining to the public health. Incidentally, too, he has, thus early in his ministerial career, ensured himself of a permanent niche in Canada's hall of medical fame.

In piloting his first major legislation through the House, Hon. Mr. Munroe emphasized the necessity of co-ordinating efforts and providing the means to combat the scourge. Backing his arguments with a wealth of statistical information, the minister emphasized the fact that a comprehensive anti-cancer programme must provide three main features: The education of the public, facilities for diagnosis and the means for treatment. All three factors are provided for in the new Act.

Stressing the importance of the educational factor, Hon. Dr. Munroe declared that "the one great handicap under which all physicians labor at the present time is the delay on the part of the patient in consulting them." Early diagnosis and treatment were essential requirements of a successful campaign, he added.

Provision is made in the Act for the establishment of consultative diagnostic clinics in the province wherein facilities will be provided for early diagnosis of the disease. Then, in order to overcome the prohibitive cost of radium required for treatment, statistics relative to the efficacy of which were cited, the Act provides for the purchase of a quantity of radium by the Government.

In discussing this phase of the matter, Dr. Munroe stated that "radium is used in the treatment of cancer in two ways. In the great majority of cases the radium salt is used in various types and forms of containers and needles, but there is also a field for its use in the form of gas. The gas is collected from a quantity of the radium salt in solution, into very minute tubes of gold, called 'seeds.' A somewhat elaborate apparatus is required to generate and purify this gas and, as well, to collect it and regulate the dosage in each seed.

The minister then stated that it was proposed to establish an emanation plant of this nature at the University of Saskatchewan, whenever there was assurance of a sufficient demand for the gold seeds to keep the plant in operation. Dr. Munroe stated, in this connection, that medical men in neighboring provinces and in Alberta already had informed him they would welcome the opportunity of procuring these seeds. The Act also makes provision for the regulation of the sale of radium emanations and derivatives.

Operation of the Act will be assigned to a permanent Cancer Commission.

One and one-half grammes of radium will be procured, according to present intentions, at a cost of $105,000 to $115,000. It is not, however, the intention that the diagnosis and treatment of cancer will be a free service, but definite assurance was given by the Minister that the charges would be reasonable and that provision would be made so that "every one may receive the necessary service able to pay for it or not."

Chinese Have Many Gods

But None Of Them Are Worshipped As a Supreme Creator

Chinese people worship so many gods that it has taken Newton Hayes, noted theologian, many years to count them. As a matter of fact, he never actually completed the job.

In a recent survey of Chinese religions, published after ten years of study, Mr. Hayes quotes contemporaries who state that the Indian divinities total 33,339, while the Greeks of ancient times had 30,000. The Chinese, he asserts, can exceed even these figures.

Besides thousands of idols, Mr. Hayes has found that the Chinese worship horses, cows, snakes, while even some insects which feed on the human body have supernatural powers accorded to them by human beings living in Cathay.

Mr. Hayes has also found that one can search in vain for a supreme creator and ruler of the universe. All other nations have a supreme deity, he points out, but China has none that occupies exactly the same place in her category of gods.

"Ten years' study of the gods of the Chinese leads us to feel that it is safe to say that there are probably even more recognized deities in the Chinese pantheon than in those of any other race," he declares.

"There are more images in this country than are found in the temples and homes of any other land. Indeed, the number of gods is so great that De Groot not only characterizes it as 'infinite' but almost in desperation resorts to hyperbole, declaring that in the creation of new gods for their 'unlimited polytheism,' the Chinese are bounded by nothing but the circumstances that even the human art of inventing gods has its limits.

"There are gods of the mountains, rivers, seas and cities; gods of the living and gods of the spirit world. There are gods both good and bad, powerful and weak, handsome and ugly, kindly and cruel. There is a god to control nearly every phase of life. There are deities of the elements, the sun, the moon, the stars, and the constellations.

"There are gods of war, literature, wealth, mercy, medicine, and disease; gods of the home, gods of the farm and even gods of individual streets and bridges. There are gods, too, for every important trade."

Times will not be much better so long as the new model of an automobile creates keener interest and invites closer inspection than a grand champion animal at an international exhibition.

CHAPTER VII.—Continued

Jim replied, as he put a generous slice of shortcake on Grandma's plate: "You're right. The committee thought the fireworks would bring a crowd to the supper, and took up a collection for the cause. They got two dollars out of me, and I don't intend to miss the show. I tell you what, Grandma! you needn't miss it, either. I'll take you down in the car soon as it gets dark."

"My soul!" breathed Grandma. "I haven't been out in the evening since I don't know when. I don't know what Charmian would say, or the doctor either, but," recklessly, "I'm going to do it! You finish up that shortcake, Jim. It's no good left over and 'twould be a shame to waste it. Charmian made it after Emmy Bascomb's recipe, and it's worth feeling a little sick next day over. Pour me another cup of tea, son. I must be fortified if I'm going gallivanting all the evening. I haven't got any green hat," she added with a twinkle, "but I'll wear my Sunday bonnet and put Great-grandmother Davis's gray crepe shawl over my coat, so you won't feel ashamed of your company. That shawl came clear from China, and a summer boarder who stopped in one day for a skein of embroidery silk, offered me three hundred dollars for it when she saw it hanging over my chair.

Jim whistled expressively as he arose to clear the table.

"I'd like to see the shawl I'd refuse three hundred for!"

"So would I," agreed Grandma, "but Charmian was mad at the woman for even offering it. She's got the Davis pride. You can set the dishes in the sink, Jimmy; and I'll go get ready if you'll help me into the north room. There's that dog again with another bone! I'd like to see where he's planning to put it, but there isn't time. It looks as if Gypsy was something of a miser; but at any rate, he won't be dependent on his relations in his old age! Here, Jimmy, lend me a hand. I'm all excited."

"So'm I," said Jim, "going out with a new girl this way!"

Grandma chuckled. "Say!" she called, as leaving her at the door of the north room, Jim departed toward the kitchen. "Charmian said to leave the dishes in the sink; but you'd better set that pat o' butter in the ice-box, and the cream, too. I'll be ready in a jiffy. Maybe I'll lie abed all day tomorrow to pay for it; but what's the use o' living if you aren't reckless once in a dog's age?"

"No use at all," grinned Jim, "and now you've set my feet on the downward path I don't care if I paint the town red. Take your time about getting ready, Grandma. There's not a bit of hurry."

He was still in the kitchen when the old lady appeared at the door again.

"My sakes! you've washed all those dishes!" she exclaimed, "and the dish towel, too. You'll make some woman a good husband, Jimmy, I'll say that."

"Aren't you ashamed, vamping a young feller this way," Jim bantered, as he wiped his hands on the roller towel. "Here, you hang onto me till I get you safe in that car. What'll I do with the door key, Grandma? Take it along?"

"You put it under the door mat, just where anybody who comes along'll know where to look for it," she responded whimsically. "It's a lovely evening, isn't it? I wouldn't mind riding a little way before the fireworks, if we've got time."

"Plenty of time. We'll run round past the Bascombs so you can see Emmy's new windows. They look corking."

Grandma sighed. There it was again—the thing that kept Charmian from loving this nice boy. He couldn't see that those big panes of glass no more fitted the old Bascomb house than she herself would fit that cheap new bungalow by the station.

"I don't want to see Emmy's windows," she replied, as the engine started. "They don't belong in that old house; but I'd admire to ride round the cemetery till it's time for the show. I haven't seen the monument that Deacon Purdie put up for his fourth wife. It's dreadfully expensive burying four wives, Jimmy. I suppose if he'd foreseen how things were going he could have had 'em all engraved on one stone, and saved a sight."

"If he's not careful," Jim responded soberly, "he'll have to invest in a bigger lot or be crowded out himself when his turn comes. They say he's making up to the Widow Moore, over to South Wickfield."

"My stars!" cried Grandma. "She must be thirty years younger than Edgar Purdie, and has got six children!"

"Sure!" smiled Jim, as he slowed up on entering the cemetery gate. "If those kids should all pass out in an epidemic, Grandma, we'd have to call a town meeting and enlarge the cemetery."

"I'm afraid," said the old lady, trying her best to look severe, "that you're making light of serious things, Jim."

"It sure is serious burying a widow."

"Here we are, Grandma. It's almost too dark for you to see it, but that's where the deacon laid his Sarah. Want to get out?"

"Good land, no! I can see well enough from here; but I wish you'd tell me what's engraved on the stone, Jimmy. The deacon always puts on some sentiment. The first one was, 'The price of a good woman is above rubies,' though every one in town knew he begrudged the money for the medicine that Edward Howe prescribed in Emma's last sickness. For his second (she was Carrie Hopkins, from over Templeton way, and could stir up as much trouble at a parish meeting as if she'd thrown a hornet's nest into the vestry), he put 'Blessed are peacemakers.' And when Eva, his third, was taken without leaving, a friend in Wickfield because of her sharp tongue, he had engraved for her, 'A good name is better than precious ointment.' I declare, Jim, I've been curious to know what he'd say for Sarah. They fought like cats and dogs."

"I'll allay that curiosity in two minutes," promised Jim, as he alighted and crossed the patch of grass on the Purdie lot. He was shaking his head soberly when he returned and said: "It looks to me, Grandma, as if the deacon had run out of Scripture verses and taken to the poets. He says of his last departed, 'A sweeter woman ne'er drew breath.' Can you beat that?"

"No," Grandma admitted gravely. "I can't, and I won't try. Seems sort o' like tempting Providence, uttering untruths like that, especially on a tombstone. While I've been sitting here, Jim, it came over me what he might say about Luella Moore, if she was taken first: 'I have commanded a widow woman there to sustain thee.' What you grinning about, sonny? It would be the truth, which is more'n the others are."

"That's right," said Jim, as he resumed the place beside her. "Or if he wants a change from the Scriptures, as we might suspect after what he says about Sarah, he could just put 'An old man's darling,' and be done with it."

Grandma endeavored not to laugh, but at last gave way to her natural impulse.

"I ought to be ashamed, thinking such thoughts and letting a boy like you think 'em too," she said regretfully, "but I never could bear Ed Purdie. He was a mean boy, always putting snakes and toads down the girls' backs; and once he hung little Willie Kingsbury down the schoolhouse well by the heels, and the child was never the same again. My! isn't that bed of pansies handsome? Is it time for the fireworks to begin?"

"It's time we were finding a place to park; but we mustn't get so near that the sparks will fall on that three-hundred-dollar shawl! You warm enough, Grandma? If I let you take a cold, Charmian will give me fits."

"She's liable to have fits herself if she sees me out this time o' night," chuckled the old lady. "Let's stop near the church, Jim, so I'll see her face when she comes out and finds me. Here we are at the common, and Ezra Bascomb is bringing out a box—fireworks most likely. That's right," as Jim stopped at the head of the Common. "This is a splendid place to see. And there's Charmian, and Doctor Carter along with her. Hasn't he got fine straight legs, Jimmy? There! he sees us. They're coming this way!"

CHAPTER VIII.

If Jim Bennett had been purely altruistic when he took Grandma Davis to see the fireworks that night, he was amply repaid when, the old lady safe home again, Charmian followed him to his car and detained him with an impulsive hand on his shoulder.

"It was dear of you, Jim, to give Grandma such a good time," she began ardently. "I don't know how to thank you."

He faced her, and at something in his eyes she dropped the friendly hand that rested on his new, well-fitting coat.

"I don't need any thanks," he said, honestly enough. "Your grandmother's more fun than any one I know—present company excepted. And the shortcake was bully."

"What shortcake? I didn't see you at the church."

He laughed.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Aspirin tablets are absolutely harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to an Aspirin tablet for relief.

Aspirin is always available, and it never fails to help. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

Dies of Burns At Innisfail Hospital.

Edward Sinclair, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sinclair, who was confined to the Innisfail Municipal hospital with pneumonia, passed away on Sunday shortly after an outbreak of fire in his room. The boy was on a cot in the sun parlor, his head covered with a canopy and an electric heater near-by was in use to supply a vapor that was a part of his treatment.

It is understood the kettle had boiled nearly dry when the nurse placed the vessel on the floor while she went to obtain more water. When she rushed back at the call of other patients who had noticed smoke, she found the bedding smouldering and the room filled with smoke.

The nurse rescued the boy. In the meantime he was severely burned and she was badly burned about the face and arms while removing him from his cot.

It is believed that during the absence of the nurse, the patient kicked off some of the bed covering and that these fell on the heater, taking fire.
